of the bill should not be enforced during a strike in the mining service. Senators Batesfield and Harris declared that it was precisely during a strike, when inexperienced men are employed, that the public should be protected from the danger of short crews, and the section finally went out on a rising vote.

Omit Exemption Clause

The next amendment offered was to omit the exemption clause, by which the operation of the bill are not applicable to persons of less than 25 miles in length. Senator Harris expressed the fear that the clause was discriminatory to such an extent that it would operate an unfairness against the miners. The provision required that the bill should be in force for a period of 25 miles. It was removed in one of the several of the amendments presented to vote in favor of making the bill as stringent as possible in order to increase the probability of its defeat. Before a roll call was taken, however, the bill was ordered to be over for a day in order that the senators might look up the point of constitutionality.

FOUND CYANIDE IN STOMACH OF SWOPE

Medical Experts Differ in Testimony of Dr. Hyde in Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 20.—An examination of the contents of the stomach of Christian Swope disclosed therein a small amount of cyanide, according to the testimony of Dr. Walter Haines, professor of toxicology in the Rush Medical College, Chicago, who followed Dr. Hektgen, on the stand at the Hyde murder trial today. He said further tests showed also the presence of strychnine.

Dr. Haines added that the fact that the body had laid in a vault three weeks would exclude the finding of poison in large quantities in the stomach, but there was "sufficient poison to have caused death."

It was Dr. Haines who conducted the analysis for poison in the viscera of Colonel Swope and in the ejecta of Margaret Swope. An analysis of the latter, he said, showed unmistakable traces of strychnine.

Witness Unshaken

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 20.—Attempts by the defense to shake the testimony of the state's expert witness, Dr. Ludwig Hektgen, of the University of Chicago, failed at today's session of the Hyde murder trial when the expert calmly stated that things he had advised in a book written several years ago, were quite inapplicable to present day conditions.

On cross-examination by Attorney Walsh, for the defense, Dr. Hektgen admitted that in performing an autopsy on Swope's body he had not followed instructions set forth in his own book on the technique of autopsies which said frozen bodies should not be thawed with hot water.

"That book was written in 1893," the witness said. "Since that time methods of embalming have changed somewhat and methods of conducting autopsies also have been altered. Were I to revise my book today, I would change those statements."

U. S. and Russia to Span Behring Sea
by Wireless Route

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Arrangements are being made between the American and Russian governments for the establishment of a regular wireless service across Behring sea which will insure telegraphic communication between the two countries in the event of interruption of the cable service.

The proposed service, taken in connection with the existing transatlantic radio service, completes the circuit of the globe by this means of communication. No new construction is required for the institution of this service.

The Russian government already has a wireless tower at Anadir, in Kamchatka, and the American government has a station at Cape Nome, Alaska. There has been some limited exchange of signals across Behring sea between these towers, but owing to the operators' limitations in the way of language they have been unable to communicate intelligently. A difficulty which, of course, easily can be overcome by the employment of operators who can speak both Russian and English. Probably the new service will be conducted under the same regulations as have been applied to the general commercial service of the government wireless system.

DENVER, Feb. 20.—James O'Driscoll, alderman from the sixth ward, resigned today at the hour set for his hearing before the board of aldermen on charges of attempting to bribe Excise Commissioner A. Mayor Arnold announced that he would accept the resignation but would appoint no successor until after a consultation with the residents of the sixth ward.

ECZEMA WOULD ITCH AND BURN

Came Out in Watery Pimples. Would Have to Walk Floor. Could Not Put Hands in Water. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

Box 7, Goshawk, Minn.—"My eczema came out in watery pimples, a kind of rash, and looked like water, with which I would wash it. And then Oh! how it would itch and burn! My hands were so bad that I could not do anything about the house. I could not wash my face or comb my hair at times. It was on the inside of my hands and feet. My trouble began with having my hands in water too much. My hands would itch and burn so I would have to walk the floor and when I would do that my feet would burn. As for putting my hands in water, I could not, for if I did my hands would bleed and my feet the same. I was not able to wear my shoes for three or four days. I tried different kinds of remedies but they did no good. By using Cuticura Soap and Ointment I was cured in four months and have seen nothing of the trouble in three years." (Signed) Miss Ada Erickson, May 6, 1912.

Who has a clear skin, soft white hands, a clean scalp and good hair? It is your birthright. Cuticura Soap with an occasional use of Cuticura Ointment will bring about those coveted conditions in most cases when all else fails. Cuticura Soap (25c) and Cuticura Ointment (50c) are sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

BUSINESS MEN TO CALL ON LEGISLATORS TODAY

DENVER, Feb. 20.—Several hundred Denver business men joined by representatives from Pueblo, Colorado Springs, Boulder and Fort Collins, have arranged to march to the capitol tomorrow afternoon to express to the legislators their approval of "reasonable" legislation regulating railroads and corporations but opposing "freak or drastic legislation."

The Colorado Springs Chamber of Commerce, through its directors at a meeting Monday, passed resolutions asking the state legislature not to pass any measures that would affect railroads to such an extent that the revenue be decreased, cost of operation increased, or the efficiency be impaired or tend to divert travel from Colorado to any other state. A committee was appointed to investigate other legislative matters and report at the next meeting.

Suffragettes and Antisuffragists on the Verge of Clash

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Within a week of each other, two big private warhorses tonight are parading up and down before the headquarters of the Women's Suffrage association and those of the antisuffragists. The appointment of the warhorses was made necessary, leaders of the two movements declared by a strained situation following the establishment of the suffrage offices near to the headquarters of the advocates of equal suffrage.

Headquarters of the antisuffrage movement were opened today. In a handsome, decorated window facing a main thoroughfare was placed a quantity of literature against the suffrage cause, much of it couched in caustic terms, which the suffragettes, only a short distance away, resent. Fearing that the latter might resort to violence, the anti decided to engage the services of the biggest watchmen they could find. Not to be outdone, the suffragettes enlisted the services of another physical giant.

Campaign Begins Today.

The active campaign of the antisuffragists will begin tomorrow, according to Miss Minnie Ross, general secretary of the association. A vast quantity of literature will be distributed and every member of congress and cabinet officer will be interviewed by women who are opposed to the suffrage cause.

Lady Patricia Street, daughter of Sir Philip Street, late chief justice of the supreme court of Australia, returned from New York today where she went to let the contracts for the costumes to be worn by the marchers and others in the suffrage parade, March 3.

MILITANTS WRECK BOTANICAL GARDEN

LONDON, Feb. 20.—Suffragettes paid another havoc-working visit to the New Botanical gardens today and fired a large "protest" pavilion, which burned to the ground. Two women were arrested. The two young women taken into custody gave their names as Lillian Lenton and Joyce Locke, each 22 years old. They were caught while running away from the scene of the fire. Each carried a bag containing a dark lantern, some cotton-wool, a hammer and a saw.

When brought up at the police court the magistrate refused to allow them bail. They were told by the court that their offense was not political, but highly criminal.

Miss Locke thereupon buried at the magistrate a big law book, which narrowly missed his head. She then fought desperately against the wardens who were assigned to remove her to a cell.

On a previous occasion, three months ago, Miss Locke threw one of her shoes at the head of an Aberdeen magistrate. She was charged with carrying explosives to a hall where Chancellor Lloyd George was to speak.

WILSON EXPLAINS ANTITRUST BILLS

Says Measures Will Not hinder Legitimate Enterprise

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 20.—Senate bill 43 the act defining trusts, and signed to promote free competition and commerce in interstate business, said Governor Wilson today, discussing the antitrust bills he signed yesterday, makes it impossible to make an agreement which directly or indirectly prohibits a free and unrestricted competition. It was urged upon the legislature that the bill be amended by adding the word "knowingly" so that it would make that any person or persons who willfully and knowingly makes an agreement in restraint of trade should be punished. I understand that there must be a guilty mind to constitute a guilty act. It seems to me that this affords ample protection to any honest man.

It has been said in some quarters that these laws will help big business and hurt the small dealers. That, of course, is not the intention and cannot be the effect. The salutary provision of the act defining trusts is that it makes it unlawful to make any agreement directly or indirectly which will preclude free and unrestricted competition in business. Monopolies exist which have accomplished by indirect action what they could not do directly. The holding company is an example of this.

The governor's statement denies charges made during the public hearing that the act would prevent a company which may lawfully loan money from taking a bond or mortgage to secure a payment. With reference to the charge that banks would be prevented by the new legislation from discounting the promissory notes of corporations, the governor pointed out that banks were not competing corporations and therefore did not come within the provisions of the act.

Stop Talking; Is Ordered Arrested

SANTA FE, N. M., Feb. 20.—A sensational scene was enacted in the lower house of the legislature this afternoon when Speaker R. L. Baca instructed the sergeant-at-arms to arrest Representative W. E. Blanchard of Otero county, because "Blanchard persisted in addressing the speaker after he had been ordered to resume his seat by the presiding officer." It is said Speaker Baca bases his authority for having Blanchard arrested on the fact that he is assistant mayor of Santa Fe, and that such action was necessary to preserve the public peace.

The city marshal was first called in to make the arrest, but Representative Blanchard defied him, and then the speaker instructed his sergeant-at-arms to act. Blanchard submitted quietly to the house police officer, who took him in charge. A writ of habeas corpus was immediately asked of District Judge E. C. Abbott and Blanchard was released on his own recognition.

The affair has caused intense excitement and serious trouble is feared as a result.

FAIL TO DECIDE ON THIRD ARBITRATOR

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Selection of the third arbitrator of the board that will decide, under the Erdman act, the demands of the firemen of the eastern railroads for more pay, and additional firemen on large locomotives, was deferred today when representatives of the railroads and their men failed to come to an agreement at a conference called to complete the personnel of the board.

W. W. Atterbury, vice president and general manager of the Pennsylvania lines, east, chosen to act for the railroads on the arbitration board, and Albert Philippe, third vice president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, representing the firemen, met under the provisions of the Erdman act and tried to decide upon a man to be their associate. A number of names were submitted by each official before adjournment was taken. Another meeting probably will be held tomorrow.

STICKS, STONES AND

BOSTON, Feb. 20.—Forteen arrests were made as a result of a street encounter between garment strike sympathizers and a crowd of young men who were escorting some women operatives from an East Boston factory, tonight. In the battle, sticks, stones and bottles figured as weapons, and many injuries were inflicted. Police reserves succeeded in separating the contending elements.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Plain labeling of food packages with the net weight of contents before they are sold to the public is required by a bill passed by the senate today, which already had passed in the house. Washington Purest
City in America,
Declares Pres. Taft

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—There is less graft, there is less scandal, police protection is better and nature appears more beautiful in Washington than in any city in this country, President Taft declared tonight in his farewell speech to the business and professional men of the capital.

"I have been here for the last three years continuously," said the president. "I believe I have been in such positions as to know if graft or undue gain at the expense of the public were rife or had any substantial existence. I do not mean to say that every man in Washington in business or in banking is as pure and as disinterested as a saint, but I do mean to say that, as cities go, there is no city in the country where there is less graft, where there is less food for scandal, where there is less manipulation for the private exploitation of individuals at the expense of the public than in Washington."

The president approved the proposed memorial bridge connecting Washington with Virginia, and declared that the District of Columbia should get from the old Dominion the territory across the Potomac originally contained in that district, but ceded back to Virginia years ago.

Detroit 'Tigers Leave for Gulfport Feb. 22

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 20.—Manager Hugh Jennings of the Detroit baseball team is in town and the real work of getting the Detroit Tigers ready for the 1913 season is under way. The members of the team, ordered to report to the Detroit headquarters will do so this week, and, headed by Manager Jennings, will leave here for the Gulfport training camp on Saturday, February 22. Most of the players will go to Gulfport direct from their homes and meet Jennings and his bunch there on Monday, February 24.

One of the principal stunts for the training squad this year will be golf. Up to the present time the Tigers have but one real golfer, Joe Lake. Ty Cobb, Sam Crawford and some of the other members have tried their hand at the game, but they are not especially expert at it.

It looks as though President Frank J. Navin is going to keep his word with his star players who are holding out for more money. Up to the present time neither Ty Cobb, Sam Crawford, Oscar Stanage nor Jean Dubuc have signed their 1913 contracts. Each player declares he will not play unless he receives more money for his services than he did last year. As these players are the star members of the outfit, and the real backbone of the team, it begins to look as though maybe the Detroit team will lose their services unless President Navin loosens up.

Crawford is holding out for $6,000 this year, an increase of $1,000 more than he received last year.

WITH JOE WOOD ON EDGE BOSIONS SHOULD BE PENNANT CONTENDERS

CLEVELAND, Feb. 20.—There are those who have been observing the strategy of the Boston Red Sox putting start in a new line that the weakness of the Sox's pitching brigade will work out in the end. While the Red Sox pitching staff as a whole will compare favorably with the best of the league, it is when the Athletics' famous trio is working right, and Joe Wood is in the back of the pitching staff, that the Sox are to be congratulated. It is this trio that is one of the very best trios that ever let fly a sphere. Then, too, Stahl has Hutch Bodie, who looks all-wood and several other players not only during the American league season, but also in the world's series. Other fingers of ability on the Boston roster are Ray Collins, outfielder, and Buck O'Brien, infielder. Stahl also has Hall a right-hander, and Van Dyke, a southpaw, to say nothing of several recruits whom he will take over on the spring training trip.

But back to Smokey Joe Wood. It was back in 1909 that this kid joined the Red Sox. That year Boston finished third in the American league, losing 83 and losing 83 games for a mark of 533. Wood in the 15 games which he was called upon to pitch saw that 350 mark of his team and went it exactly 2 points better, his record for the season being 11 victories and 7 defeats, a mark of 611.

The following season Wood was in a great deal of the time and was anything but himself. He worked on the mound in 27 games, winning one less than he lost, 13 and 14, for a rating of 143. His record finished fourth in the league race, with 87-72-729.

But Smokey Joe came back with a vengeance in 1911. While his team finished fifth, with 75 victories and 77 defeats, a mark of 629, he performed in 19 games and was on the mound for the verdict in 21 shows, that season, a pennant-winning aggregation, and that Wood excelled his team's rating by almost 200 points, or 181, to be exact, his achievement looms up as all the more remarkable.

In the four years, Wood has been with Boston he has won 30 and lost 32 games, a percentage of 656, while his team has won 332 and lost 257 games, for a mark of 578. This gives Wood the call by 78 points over his team. And he wants to say here and now that the Red Sox pitching staff will be anything but weak if Smokey Joe is himself next season.

WRESTLE THREE HOURS WITHOUT SINGLE FALL

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—George Bothner of America and Henry Irlinger of Europe, met in an international middleweight wrestling match at Brown's gymnasium tonight and wrestled three hours and 40 minutes without a fall. The referee, John O'Brien of the New York A. C., declaring the bout a draw. Bothner hurt his left knee in the first 10 minutes of wrestling and was on the defensive the rest of the match. But Irlinger, the middleweight champion of Europe, and holder of the Lonsdale belt, could do nothing with his opponent.

Bothner, who is 47 years old, weighed 149 3-4 pounds, while Irlinger, aged 27, weighed 157 1-2. The conditions called for the best two out of three falls.

SETS NEW RECORD

DECATUR, Ill., Feb. 20.—John Layton of St. Louis, established a new world's record tonight for a continuous run at pocket billiards under the new style of play, pocketing 78 balls. The run was made in a match game with C. Layson of Decatur.

JACK JOHNSON ILL

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—Jack Johnson, the pugilist, is ill at his home here of pneumonia, according to a statement made by his attorney to Judge Carpenter in the United States district court. The court said that if the fighter was well enough by February 26 he would be placed on trial charged with violating the Mann "white slave" act later. Johnson was taken ill Sunday but was reported to be improving today.

WOLGAST FAVORITE IN BATTLE WITH MURPHY

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 20.—With the Murphy-Wolgast battle but two days away, the fans are laying in to the former champion, and a goodly thousands of dollars have been bet. It looks up like one of the greatest betting contests San Francisco has seen in years.

Murphy has always been a consistent performer around here. The wise ones seem to think that he has a great chance to put Wolgast out of the running.

The outcome of the bout will be determined by Wolgast's condition. If he gets right, he figures to beat Murphy. If he fails to round to and shows up before doing serious damage, then his chance for victory will be slim.

The little fellow from Michigan does not look right. He still carries a large stomach, and his wind is not as good as it was when he beat Burns, Moran, Nelson and others.

Up to the present time neither Wolgast nor Manager Tom Jones has bet a dime on the battle. This is taken as an indication that they are not quite so confident as they used to be. They lost something like $14,000 when Rit-his won the championship, and they want as much when the little fellow beats Joe Rivers in Los Angeles. Jones says he's going to bet a chunk on his boy, but apparently he intends to wait till the eleventh hour.

The Murphy backers have been very active. Harry Egan, the New York sporting man, Dave Cowgell of Oakland and several other big operators, have taken the short end.

COLD WEATHER STOPS PRACTICE AT COLLEGE

Cold weather the last two days has upset the plans of Coach Rothgeb, and the Tiger baseball candidates will not be ordered out probably for several days, or at least until the weather moderates. Rothgeb expected to have his men out on the field today.

BOULDER EXPECTS TO HAVE STRONG BALL TEAM

BOULDER, Colo., Feb. 20.—The first official call for baseball practice has been issued by Capt. Eugene Bond, of the University of Colorado, who will direct the work with the advice of Dr. W. W. Watson, a former Western league player of this city, until some suitable coach is selected.

The baseball diamond on Gambel field will be put into shape for the spring practice this week and in all probability a baseball cage will be erected on the field in an effort to develop some Hans Wagners out of the large squad that will report for the team.

The prospects for a good team are unusually bright. The pitching staff will consist of the old reliable, Jimmy Gartland, of last year's team; Chamberlain, last year's freshman phenom; Nairan, a former Prep star; Smith, Shimeall and Williams. The latter is a new pitcher from the Golden High school. He has lots of smoke and has an elusive curve. Bond, captain of the nine, "Chick" Bonner, Carl Shimeall and Huber are the candidates for catcher, the latter having attended the University of Nebraska last semester.

Kemp, captain of last year's team, will be a candidate for his old position at first base; Hemberger, for second; Bailey for both pitcher and shortstop, and the brilliant little star, Tony Griffin, for third. Rosenbloom is the only outfielder of last year's team in school.

Interfraternity baseball games are being arranged here as in the past. This year the university band will play at all games and late in the spring the band will be called upon to give concerts once a week during baseball and track practice. Prizes will be offered to the members of the ball team making the best average in fielding and batting, home runs being barred.

The Cincinnati, St. Louis and Boston clubs have refused to waive an outfielder, Peals Becker, of the Giants, so the Indianapolis club will not get this desirable player.

Smith Lester Battle Should Prove Lively

By W. W. NAUGHTON.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 20.—The Smith-Lester battle, which is expected to be one of the most exciting of the season, will take place at the San Francisco Athletic club on Saturday, February 23. The fight is expected to be a very close one, and the outcome is expected to be a very lively one.

WHITE SOX SPECIAL IS OFF ON JOURNEY

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—The Chicago American league special train, bearing the White Sox, special agents, newspaper correspondents and others to the number of 88, steamed out of town tonight on the way to Paso Robles, Cal., tomorrow, when Walter Matthau and George Johnson are poked up at a round in the party will be complete.

Only two players new on the club roster were not on the train. They were Wolgast and Ellis Johnson. It was said at the train that they were left behind by their physicians orders.

Among the veterans was "Billy" Sullivan, the catcher, who has been with the team so many years, and who it was reported last night, was slated for release. He signed a contract today. It is understood he will be used chiefly as a coach for young hitters, men this season.

"Tip" Noll, president of the Western league, will be the only official on the train besides President Conkey, O'Neill went along as "house manager," and general overseer of the party. President Dan H. Johnson, who usually goes with the club on its training trip, was detained in Chicago.

Several Pacific Coast league players had planned to make the trip with the major leaguers, but none of them showed up at the station.

The players are expected to reach Paso Robles Monday morning and Manager Callahan will begin at once putting his men through their preliminary training work. As Callahan is a firm believer in making haste slowly when spring training is concerned, the first few days will be devoted to loosening up processes.

Callahan will have "Karl" Gleason, veteran of many big league pennant fights, as his assistant, while Harry Lord will act as field captain.

This is the fourth spring training trip made by the White Sox to California.

The first real game of the year will be played February 27 when the first team will play at Oakland and the second team at Los Angeles.

Accommodations for the party have already been arranged by "Death Valley" Jim Scott, one of the pitching staff who already is at Paso Robles.

Among the youngsters whose work will be closely watched is Dick Cassett, a catcher who came from the Western league with a strong recommendation from Manager Jack Hendricks of Denver.

The following players were aboard the train: Manager Callahan, Coach Gleason, Pitchers Walsh, Cleotis, Benz, Lange, Wolfgram, Miller, Doukias, Delano and C. Smith, and Catchers Cassett, Sullivan and Schalk, Infielders Rath, Kernan, Zieder, Lord, Boston, Ernie Johnson, Outfielders J. J. Johnson, Collins and Dave Jones.

Kuhn, Bodie, Easterly, Scott, Russell, Weaver and Berger are to join the team at Paso Robles.

FAMOUS HORSE. BALLOT, IS SOLD FOR $30,000

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Phillip T. Chinn, a Kentucky horseman who acted for W. K. Vanderbilt in the purchase of seven mares for $60,000 from the late James R. Keene, announced today that he had sold to John E. Madden, the stallion Ballot for $30,000. Mr. Chinn had an option on the horse which was a famous winner on the American turf a few years ago. Ballot left England today on the Minneapolis, which is due here March 2. He will go to Hamburg Place, Mr. Madden's stock farm, near Lexington, Ky. It was said by Algonquin Parkfield of the Jockey club tonight that several other breeders are associated with Mr. Madden in the purchase of Ballot.

CHAVEZ KNOCKED OUT BY BAILING CHICO

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Feb. 20.—In a bout scheduled to go 20 rounds here tonight, Bailing Chico, of Los Angeles, knocked out Benny Chavez of Trinidad, Colo., in the second round.

Chavez was clearly outclassed from the first. Chico displayed dazzling speed and kept Chavez on the defensive. In the first round he rushed through the ropes and appeared to have him going. Chavez came back at once in the second, only to be punished severely. Again forcing Chavez to the ropes, Chico landed a left uppercut to the stomach and crossed a right to the jaw. Chavez took the count of nine and came up helpless. A right to the jaw finished him. One thousand five hundred people saw the contest.

RACQUET RESULTS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—In the semi-final round of the national amateur racquet championship here today, McCormick of Chicago defeated Green-Glass, Montreal and Waterbury, New York defeated Mortimer, Toledo. On Saturday, McCormick and Waterbury will meet in the final.

SHOVEL SNOW

THANKS to more energetic efforts of the Police Department, and perhaps to increased civic pride, the nuisance of snow-covered sidewalks has been considerably reduced this winter. This is all the more gratifying since it is evidence that the weather man has decided to give us an unusually large share of The Beautiful.

But would it not be well for the police to bestow special attention on the owners or agents in charge of vacant lots? As a rule such property is wholly neglected, covered with unsightly weeds in summer while in winter the snow on the adjacent sidewalks is allowed to remain until it melts. There is a good deal of property of this sort in town, which makes it all the more desirable that it be properly cared for.

GERMAN CROP YIELDS

THEY do some things better in Europe. For instance, in a recent Senate document it is stated that "during the past thirty years the combined average yield per acre of wheat, rye, barley and oats in the United States has increased by 60 per cent, while the average yield of the same crops in Germany has increased 80 per cent in the same period."

This result in Germany is attributed to "intensive farming," that is, to more thorough tillage, careful soil analysis to determine just what purpose it is best adapted to, and to the general use of fertilizers. It is also due to crop rotation whereby cereals are alternated with sugar beets, alfalfa, and other crops which restore to the soil the elements taken out of them by cereals.

We Americans have a lot to learn about farming, notwithstanding we are the greatest agricultural country in the world. The soil of Germany, France, and other European countries has been tilled for more centuries than ours has decades; yet it produces from two to five times as much per acre. In France land which has been producing wheat since long before Columbus discovered America today far outstrips in its per acre yield the absolutely virgin soil of western Canada. The reason is that in Europe science has rendered the maximum of aid to the farmer, while in this country the farmer puts in his seed and trusts to providence for a crop.

THE LITERACY TEST FOR IMMIGRANTS

THE unexpected action of the House in refusing to pass the Dillingham Immigration bill over President Taft's veto brings to an end an interesting legislative contest. The point at issue was whether our Government should impose a literacy test on foreign immigrants seeking admission to the United States. The question is not a new one, for President Cleveland vetoed a similar bill fifteen years ago. But it is clear that the present Congress is more firmly committed to the measure than was the earlier one, for the Senate passed the bill over the President's veto by a vote of 72 to 18, considerably more than the necessary two-thirds majority, while it was lost in the House Wednesday by a vote of 213 for to 114 against, or only ten less than the necessary two-thirds.

Many competent authorities on immigration are opposed to the literacy test on the ground that it would bar out a great many foreigners who would make good citizens despite their inability to read or write. But the preponderance of opinion seems to be on the other side. The Dillingham bill was prepared after a careful investigation into the whole immigration problem, with special reference to the ultimate careers of the immigrants. It was found that during the last decade 87 per cent of the arrivals have been people of a very low type, fit only for common labor, unresponsive to the obligations of citizenship, and especially objectionable because of their willingness to work for wages so low that the better class of citizenship cannot compete with them. The commission that made the investigation found that in all industries the lowest paid class of labor is held by foreign-born and native-born Americans of the same class.

To force a literacy test on the immigrants is to send a message to the American people to exercise greater caution in admitting the hordes of foreigners who soon become a part of the body politic and exercise the rights of franchise. For more than a decade these people have been coming in at the rate of about one million annually, and it is well known that the standard of intelligence and general character of American citizenship is much lower than formerly. Until about twenty years ago most of the immigration was from Germany, Ireland and northern Europe, but now an overwhelming majority of it is from southern Europe, especially from Italy and the Slavonic countries. As between a German or Scandinavian on the one hand and a Greek, a Bulgarian or a "hunk" on the other, it is not hard to guess which is the most desirable as a prospective American citizen.

A change of five votes in the House could have made the Dillingham bill a law despite the President's veto, and it is an attitude of Congress in any way indicative of the attitude of the next Congress. It is altogether probable that the application of the literacy test will not long be postponed.

EXIT UNCLE JOE

IT was fitting and proper that official Washington united in a splendid farewell to Uncle Joe Cannon to express its regret over his departure. Politically Mr. Cannon is numbered among the slain of last November's battle, but in other respects he is very much alive. He has represented his district in Congress since before some of the men who are now in public life were born, and in all that time 488 has not changed a bit. That is why he is now retired to private life, for the times have changed and the popular idea and ideal of public service, of politics and government, have changed with them.

We have neither liking nor respect for Uncle Joe's brand of politics or for his conception of the obligations of a congressman to the people. But the man himself is as thoroughly likable a figure as any in our current history. He is not a quitter or a trimmer, he knows what he wants and fights for it to the finish. Usually he won, but when finally beaten he went down with colors flying. The things for which he stood might be ever so unpopular, but he never apologized for them. He hated sham and pretense cordially and never hesitated to express his opinion as bluntly and forcibly as possible.

The only pity is that Uncle Joe could not grow with the age. The newer and higher ideals of service came too late for him, they found him too old to change. Stupidity was ingrained in every fiber, and he gloried in it. That is why his defeat in the last election was a good thing not alone for the people of his district, but for the nation. But just the same he will be sincerely missed in Washington.

KITCHEN VS. STORE.

To the Editor of The Gazette:
In reply to the letter of E. G. Reynolds which appeared in the morning Gazette, in regard to the wage problem of shop girls, would it not be wise to reflect upon the question from all sides?

As long as there is an over supply of women for employment in stores there cannot be an increase in wages.

The supply of maids for general house work, cooks etc., is alarmingly small, many people having to resort to the hotel or apartment houses to solve the problem.

The minimum wage for house work is $25.00 per month and from that to $10.00, according to ability.

Nothing is expended for food, room, light or fuel—and still the cry is "Nothing to do and starvation wages."

There is no country in the world where such wages and salaries are paid as in America and yet the nation is noted for its discontent.

In Germany a maid of all work is paid the minimum sum of $15.00 per month, and she grumbles. When the American girl realizes that she must do what she can get to do and not what she wishes to do to earn an honest livelihood, then she will be able to solve the problem.

The truth is, the girl in the shop feels herself so superior to the kitchen maid that it would be a deplorable state of affairs for her to come down to the level of a cook.

Therefore, to maintain false pride, the seeker after employment must accept what the merchant chooses to give. It is to be regretted that the question of north and south has not been eliminated from the city as it has been from the nation.

By constantly referring to the "slum district" south of Pike's Peak avenue, we are always arousing the greatest antagonism between some of the best citizens of our city.

Fortunately there is no slum district in Colorado Springs, except in the minds of complaining inhabitants.

There is no city anywhere so free from poverty. Therefore, let us eliminate forever this prejudice that all of the morality, culture, wealth and brains live north of Pike's Peak avenue and all of the vice, poverty and feeble-mindedness south of Pike's Peak avenue.

We can never work together for the public welfare of our beautiful city until we recognize that United we stand, divided we fall.

Colorado Springs, Feb. 20

SELECTING CANDIDATES

The attached letter from a disappointed citizen is of interest to the Mexicanized condition of affairs in our city, it is well worthy of serious consideration by the citizens of Colorado Springs. Substantially the same Colorado Springs for Denver in his own hands sign it ourselves and put upon those who have lodged the duty of closely scanning the names of those who aspire to office in our city.

Seventy-five of the names so far submitted to the public ought to be eliminated. No important business man would think of employing a man in any capacity of responsibility in his business—and we should submit to letting them corral their friends to vote for them, with the result that the public business is turned over to incompetent men. This selection of competent men for committee is not political work, our charter says it must be nonpartisan, and the Chamber of Commerce ought to take the matter in hand and not shrink this great nonpartisan duty, and so emphatically act to eliminate the unworthy and incompetent candidates. Is that body going to be equal to its opportunity? Is that protective body of our aggregated citizens willing to protect the aggregated business of the city? Or is it only going to engage in hot air, corner grocery, self-indulgence, and favor our Mexicanized capital city?

Colorado Springs, Feb. 20

To the Chamber of Commerce, Real Estate Exchange, Business Men's League, Trades Association, Clearing House Association, Traffic Club and all other similar organizations and the public generally.

In common with all our good citizens I am very much interested in the selection of the five commissioners who are to manage our city affairs under the amended charter. I am an old resident of our city, a taxpayer and always desirous of securing the best city government attainable.

I have, therefore, a suggestion which I hope will at least bring to the attention of our people the importance of wise action on their part in the present situation. I suggest that each of the public or semi-public associations of our city promptly hold meetings, appoint a representative committee, who shall select the names of persons eligible and capable of filling the most important position. Then let these various committees meet together as a single body and by consultation eliminate the least desirable names to such a reasonable number of candidates, who can at least, in a general way, receive the endorsement of the combined general committee and their constituent bodies.

This being accomplished the list can be presented to our different papers and their support asked.

Such a general committee of good citizens, representing all classes of our people, presumably interested only in the selection of the best men to handle our municipal corporation with its millions of property interests, affecting all classes of our people, from the millionaire with his palatial home, to the humblest laborer with his simple cottage, certainly ought to be able to select, such a list of prospective commissioners that whenever might be elected would be worthy of the position. Without some such concerted action we will be left to choose from the innumerable candidates regardless of character or fitness, who have been able to secure the necessary hundred signatures to their petitions, and I may say here that I don't want to be understood as saying that because any of our citizens may seek one of these positions that he is necessarily unfit, in fact he may be one of the best.

Since the new system met the approval of a large majority of the few of our citizens sufficiently interested to vote at the recent election it certainly now behooves us all to forget past differences, ignore mere political affiliations and make it as much of a success as is possible.

WILLIAM T. TORD.

Hickory Nut People

BY RUTH CAMERON.

The other day I heard a man ask one of his superiors in business for a favor. He asked him in a pleasant, half joking manner and if refusal were necessary, might easily have been refused in the same light vein. But instead of doing this, the older man's answer was so curt and sharp and almost rude, that it must have made his employer feel as if he had run plump up against a stone wall. Even I, who was a distinguished witness, felt as one does when the clouds suddenly shut out the sun on an April morning.

Anyone would certainly have received the impression that the older man was offended at being asked for the favor and took pleasure in refusing it in as disagreeable a manner as possible.

What was my surprise when I afterwards happened to find out that even before he was asked, he had tried of his own accord to make it possible to grant this privilege to his young employee and was much disappointed when he found it impossible.

Now why on earth couldn't he have given some hint of this in his manner? Why couldn't he have spoken in a kindly tone and expressed some regret? What harm could it have done, and how much less uncomfortable it would have made his petitioner.

And this is the sort of thing that man is continually doing—putting himself out to benefit people, and then being so abrupt and sharp and sometimes so unappealingly rude in his manner toward them that they take him for the crossiest old curmudgeon in the world.

Of course the people who know him intimately know that he really has a heart of gold, but they are very few. He isn't the kind who invites intimates.

Now it seems to me that this man is a fairly common type. There are a great many people in this world who are like the hickory nut, sound and sweet as can be inside, but incased in a stiff, impenetrable manner.

I know a woman who has the kindest heart in the world and the most unfortunate manner. She is always trying to help people and always being rebuffed and misunderstood because of her nervous and fretting way.

Of course what one does is more important than the manner in which one does it, but not so much more important as many people seem to think.

A gracious manner is a gift to all with whom we come in contact. It softens and alleviates refusal, and enhances the value of benefits conferred.

One of my pleasantest recollections of all my newspaper work is that of a woman who refused me an interview, but refused it with an exquisite graciousness and kindly regret that took all the sting out of my disappointment.

A pleasant manner is something that we owe both to those about us and to ourselves. To those about us because it helps make life pleasant for them. To ourselves because our manner is the only measure which most people have to judge us by, and therefore we ought to look well to it.

For modest Newark takes all the prizes among American cities. It is 300 years old and is the fourteenth city in size in the United States. Yet so quickly it has acquired its 100,000 inhabitants that if it were not for one of our largest and most water-consuming manufacturing companies, its existence would hardly be suspected.

Newark is located nine miles west of New York city and has about as much chance of getting noticed as a steamship port beside an elephant. Newark has all the necessities of greatness, including a good newspaper, a $2,000,000 city hall, which looks like that amount and a fine history. But it was not located carefully. The great fortunes, who staked out Newark within sound of New York in 1666, were as foolish as the citizens, which tried to chip in competition with a brass band. Had the pilgrims located Newark in Arizona it would be one of the wonders of the west, and tourists would flock to see it. As it is, however, thousands of travelers pass through Newark on their way to New York each year, and most of them are bargaining with the bus and baggage men while the city rolls by.

"Bargaining with the bus and baggage men."

Newark manufactures $125,000,000 worth of shoes, hats, corsets, boots and other commodities each year, but this place of information is always crowded out of New York newspapers to make room for the news that another Broadway restaurant has increased the price of bread and butter.

Newark is connected with America by the Pennsylvania and Lackawanna and other railroads, and with Europe by the Passenger River and Newark Bay. It is also connected by tunnel with New York and by insurance agents with every city in the country. The wards of 160,000 automobiles pass through the city on Broad street each year bound for the famous roadhouses of New Jersey, and the Newark citizen who does not tell the stranger that Broad and Market streets form the busiest street corner in America is violating a city ordinance.

Newark will have half a million people in 1920 and will be bigger than Cincinnati, Buffalo or Milwaukee, but unless New York will kindly consent to stop its racket for a minute this fact will pass unnoticed.

Prayer Is "Political," Senate Chaplain Stopped

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 20.—Lieutenant Governor O'Neill caused a sensation in the senate today when he stopped the Rev. H. R. Henry of the Emmanuel Baptist church of this city, who was making the opening prayer and said:

"Stop making a political speech." The minister had prayed for the separation of the "rum traffic" from the state and for "the coming of the day" when Indiana would refuse to sell to men the right to make other men drunkards."

The lieutenant governor, who had been showing signs of impatience, vigorously banged the marble slab with his gavel and commanded the minister to stop. He ordered the journal to be read and the Rev. Mr. Henry immediately left the chamber.

IN THE EARLY DAYS

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 21, 1883.

W. R. Thornell, a local insurance man, had left town and was discovered that he owed premium money to several of the companies he represented and also had many local creditors. His whereabouts was unknown.

The discovery of a new marble quarry, said to surpass anything of the kind heretofore discovered in Colorado, was reported from near Salida.

The city council had refused to grade Cascade avenue in front of the new hotel and the first Antlers, and a petition asking them to reconsider this decision was procuring many signatures.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 21, 1893.

The regular monthly meeting of the Monday Evening club was held at the home of President Slocum. Col. Edgar T. Hession read a paper on "The Aesthetic Development of Colorado."

At the conclusion a set of resolutions was passed, setting forth that Colorado Springs needed more park and pleasure grounds and a committee was appointed to bring this matter before the mayor and the city council.

The ladies of the First Baptist church gave a highly successful "Washington tea" over 100 people were at the tea and the entertainment which followed it.

Austin Banks and O. E. Boles of Denver rode from there to Colorado Springs on bicycles in nine hours and five minutes, which was regarded as remarkably fast time.

The police arrested a man named Stevens, who had stolen some jewelry from Horace K. Devereaux. Some of it was found in his possession.

The pupils of the Lillier school held exercises commemorating Washington's birthday, which were much enjoyed by the parents and friends of the pupils who attended in large numbers.

THE HASKIN LETTER

THE PASSENGER PIGEON

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

The recent sickness of the passenger pigeon in the Cincinnati Zoological gardens—that last survivor of a mighty host—has served to call the attention of naturalists again to one of the most remarkable of all the stories of nature's history—the extinction of one of the most remarkable birds that ever inhabited the earth. Millions of people are still living whose eyes have witnessed the flight of the myriad hordes of passenger pigeons, and yet only one of all the vast numbers of those pigeons is known to survive.

And that one occupies a place of honor in the Cincinnati Zoo. When he dies it is probable that his body will be presented to the nation to be preserved in alcohol at the National Museum.

In these days it is hard for the younger people to believe the story of the passenger pigeon, so incredible were their numbers, so remarkable were their flights, and so strange were their nestings. And the story of the brutality that marked the work of the pot hunters who followed them as a tiger stalks his prey, relentlessly pursuing them, using the telegraph to keep in touch with their flights and their nestings, is a story of revolting cruelty and butchery.

The world is indebted to John James Audubon, the great naturalist, for what is perhaps the best account of the passenger pigeon ever written. And his faithful and scientific accuracy truthfulness and accuracy accuracy accuracy it is a story to be accepted at its face value. He relates that in the autumn of 1812, he left his house at Henderson on the banks of the Ohio, to go to Louisville. In passing over the Harpers, a few miles from Harpersburg, he observed pigeons flying from the northeast to the southwest, in greater numbers than he had ever seen before. After they had been passing for about an hour he dismounted, seated himself on an eminence, and made a dot with a pencil for every flock that passed. In a short time he found that he was putting down dots at the rate of 163 in 21 minutes. He resumed his journey and still the pigeons came, the light of day was darkened as if by a solar eclipse. Like a torrent and with the roar of distant thunder, they came with the wings of the wind in undulating and angular lines, descending and sweeping close to the earth, then mounting perpendicularly so as to resemble a vast column, and when high in the air once more, wheeling and twisting within their continued lines, which then resembled the coils of a gigantic serpent.

Great Bird Pageant.

For 35 miles Audubon traveled on to Louisville, with the serried columns of pigeons still floating over his head, and for three days the flight continued. Each flock did exactly as the one ahead had done, if the one ahead darted down when passing over a brook, or dodging a hawk, the flock behind did the same. Audubon attempted to estimate the number of pigeons in that great flight. He assumed that the column averaged a mile in width, which was far below the average in point of fact. Then he assumed that birds flew at the rate of 60 miles an hour, also a conservative assumption. Upon this basis the pigeons passing in three hours would form a streak 180 square miles in area, and counting two pigeons to the square yard, there would be nearly a billion and a quarter pigeons in such a flight.

Many there must have been, for three days Audubon did not undertake to say. Audubon's observations were so accurate that he fully half a pint of food a day. The pigeons in a three-hour flight would thus need nearly 500,000 bushels of food a day.

Audubon made several pilgrimages to a famous roosting place on the banks of the Green river in Kentucky. He rode through the forest for upward of 40 miles, and by crossing and recrossing it reached the conclusion that the roost was of an average breadth of three miles. His first view of it was about two weeks after the pigeons had established it as a roosting place. He arrived about two hours before sunset. Few pigeons were to be seen, but there were great numbers of people, who, with horses and wagons, children and dogs, guns and ammunition, had established camps on the borders of the forest. Two farmers had driven more than 300 hogs over 100 miles to fatten them on pigeons that were to be slaughtered there. There were people engaged in plucking and salting the catch of the day before. Many trees two feet in diameter had been broken off by the sheer weight of the multitudes of roosting birds. Everywhere great branches of forest monarchs were broken off, and the aspect of the thousand acres of woodland was such as one might expect to be the result of a fierce tornado.

People Astonished.

Some of the people who were camping there had great pots of sulphur. Others had poles, and others guns. It was after sundown that the cry went up that the returning hordes were approaching. The noise they made reminded Audubon of a hard gale at sea passing through the rigging of a close-reefed vessel. As they passed over his head he felt a current of air that astonished him. Thousands of birds were knocked down by the pole men, but tens of thousands and even millions continued to pour in. They alighted everywhere, one above another, until masses as large as hogheads were formed on the branches all around. Here and there perches gave way under the weight with a crash, killing hundreds of birds as they fell. Everything was uproar and confusion. The people could not hear themselves talking to one another and even the reports of shotguns and blunderbusses could not be heard above the great noise. The forest to see how far the noise could be heard, and it was plainly audible three miles distant. By midnight the stream of arrivals began to fall off, but before the break of day the advance guard began to move out again. While no one dared so in the woods while the pigeons were in the trees, they were able to kill and cripple enough of them to keep all the people busily employed next day, with enough left over to give the 300 hogs, the wolves, the foxes, the lynxes, the cougars, bears, raccoons, opossums, pole cats, eagles and hawks a more than satisfactory breakfast and at the same time to save enough back for the vultures that came to supplant the animals and the birds of prey.

Cooper Saw Great Flights.

James Fenimore Cooper also saw the flights of the passenger pigeons, and he said that in a single flight he had seen enough birds to provision Xerxes' army for a month and enough feathers to provide a downy couch for every person in the country.

The white man and his net are responsible for the disappearance of the passenger pigeon from the face of the earth. They began their foray about 1840. The profession of pigeonier came into existence, and these men banded themselves together to exploit the pigeon. By the telegraph they were able to keep in close touch with the movements of the pigeons, and no pigeon roost could be established for many days before the pigeoniers were on hand to get in their deadly work. They carried with them trained stool pigeons by which they were enabled to call down great flocks of passing

PARIS, Feb. 20.—Raymond Poincaré, new president of the French republic, in a message to parliament today made some pointed references to the necessity of increasing France's military power. After setting forth his conception of the presidency and the necessity for a firm executive power, he declared:
It is impossible for any nation to be effectively pacific unless it is always ready for war. France exposed by her own faith to dangers of humiliation would be France no more.
It would be a crime against civilization to allow our nation to decrease its forces while other nations developed theirs without cessation.
He eulogized the army and navy and then alluded to the diplomacy of France as having labored silently during many months among the perils of a redoubtable crisis.

CIVIL SUIT AGAINST M'CASKEY REGISTER CO.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 20.—Sensational charges of violation of the Sherman antitrust law are leveled at the McCaskey Register company in a civil suit filed here today by order of Attorney General Wickesham.

To acquire a monopoly of the interstate and foreign commerce in the sale of account registers, appliances and systems for keeping credit accounts, the company, it is charged, wrongfully and fraudulently suppressed the business of competitors, bribed their employees, waged an unfair campaign of patent suits and threatened suits, and by other unlawful methods, sought to stifle competition.

The federal district court here was asked to restrain the defendants from further monopoly and to prohibit a series of alleged unlawful and unfair practices.

THE GET-RICH SECRET

From the New York Evening World.
CHICAGO.—Norman W. Harris of N. W. Harris & Co. and Harris Forbes & Co., on retirement after nearly 50 years in the banking business in Boston, New York and Chicago, gives these rules to young men trying to find the road to success:
At young men must learn to save money as well as make it.
There is an old proverb: "Any fool can make money. It takes a wise man to save it."
Money is not everything, success is more than money. But one must save money and have money to gain success.
One way to save money is to lay out a line of policy that is safe and then stick to it through thick and thin.
Another way to save money—if a young man can't do it himself—is to marry and let one's wife handle the pay envelope.
It is as important for a young man to learn to save money as it is for him to learn books.

WOULD APPROPRIATE A LUMP SUM FOR RIVERS AND HARBORS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Extraordinary in the present system of improving the waterways and the need of closer cooperation between states and the federal government were emphasized in the senate today in a fight over certain provisions of the annual river and harbor appropriation bill. Senator Nelson, chairman of the Senate commerce committee, said before results could be secured in waterway improvement if congress would appropriate a lump sum and leave the details of river improvement to a commission of army engineers.

Both branches of congress struggled with appropriation measures throughout the day, the house devoting its time to further debate over the $113,000,000 sundry civil bill. Many features of the measure were the subject of extended debate.

The senate again took up the fight over federal water power control in debate on the river and harbor bill. An amendment providing for a 30-foot dam near Minneapolis in which water power would be developed was adopted after friends of federal control had renewed the fight that centered about the Connecticut river dam bill last week. Final action was not taken on the bill. Senator McLean of Connecticut will offer the Connecticut river dam bill, over which the senate spent a week of debate, as an amendment to the river and harbor bill tomorrow.

The senate passed without debate the annual diplomatic and consular appropriation bill authorizing $3,700,000 for the support of the government's foreign service. The measure will have to be perfected in a conference committee.

The senate committee on public buildings and grounds completed the public building bill, which carries approximately $20,000,000 more than the house bill. A memorial bridge across the Potomac river from Washington to Arlington national cemetery at a cost of $2,000,000 is provided for.

M'MANIGAL TESTIMONY IS ALLOWED TO STAND IN SECOND DARROW TRIAL

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 20.—An unexpected ruling by Judge Conley, that the testimony already given by Otto E. McManigal was admissible, and an unsuccessful attempt by the prosecution to exclude the evidence of Frankmont Older, editor of a San Francisco newspaper, featured today's session of the trial of Clarence S. Darrow, for alleged jury bribery.
The prosecution contended that Older was merely an "onlooker," not a principal, in the negotiations for the plea of guilty by the McManigal brothers, prior to the jury bribing exposure, and that his testimony, therefore, was inadmissible. By overruling the objection, the court paved the way for the introduction of evidence purporting to show that there was no motive on the part of Darrow for the bribery of George N. Lockwood, on which charge Darrow was acquitted.

Older testified that he came to Los Angeles on November 23, 1911, and took part in a conference with Lincoln Steffens, a magazine writer, and others, who were endeavoring to bring about a settlement of the case. He said that it had been decided by the McManigal defense to allow J. J. McManigal to plead guilty, as well as his brother, if the district attorney declined to allow only a plea of guilty on the part of James R. McManigal.
Older will resume the stand tomorrow, and it is expected that he will be followed by Lincoln Steffens.

The remarkable play, "Kindling," which is to be presented in this city by the United Play company next Monday, matinee and night at Grand Opera House, was written by Charles Kenyon, a Californian, who has come before the public only once before as author of "The Flaming Station," a one-act vaudeville playlet. After he left Stanford University in the early years of the century, Kenyon followed many occupations, including acting in "ten-to-twelve" theatrical companies, writing daily rumor for a newspaper and punching cattle by way of breaking tuberculosis. Through it all he dabbled with playwriting; his Broadway reputation. Then Aaron Davies, an old-time San Francisco actor, wrote an opening "new" story for Kenyon's play. During San Diego the report of an incident, which he witnessed in police court, Kenyon, on a visit to New York, saw that story, put it out of the newspaper and slipped it into a magazine for safe keeping. When he opened the magazine again he found the slipping lying between an article on the Trinity tenebris. "Kindling" was
